

Withdrawal Policy: Faculty-led Programs

Withdrawal from a UA faculty-led study abroad program must be submitted to UA Study Abroad using the online Study Abroad Withdrawal Form. Withdrawal will be considered official only upon receipt of this form.

All participants in a faculty-led program must pay:

- $80 non-refundable UA Study Abroad application fee
- $150 - $1500 non-refundable program deposit (varies with credits offered and program duration)
- Final program costs (vary by program)

Completion of the Commit to Program Form in UAstudy following acceptance into a study abroad program serves as the student's official commitment to participate in the faculty-led program. Committed students who withdraw on or after the dates listed below will be responsible for the corresponding percentage of the total program costs:

Term	50% of Program Costs	100% of Program Costs
Winter	October 15	November 1
Spring/Spring Break/Calendar Year	November 15	December 1
Honors Trip	January 15	April 10
Summer	March 10	April 10
Fall/Academic Year	May 15	July 1

Participants who officially withdraw prior to the 50% date above for their applicable term are responsible only for the non-refundable deposit and application fee. No remaining program charges will be placed on the student's UA Bursar's account.

In the event that a student withdraws after the 50% or the 100% date, charges will be placed on the student's UA Bursar's account in accordance with the above chart and within 10 UA business days after receipt of the completed withdrawal form.

The application fee and program deposit are NON-REFUNDABLE except where UA Study Abroad cancels the entire program. If UA Study Abroad cancels the program, UA Study Abroad will assist the student in finding an alternative program within the same term or subsequent term. If no alternative program is available or the student does not wish to switch programs, UA Study Abroad will refund the application fee and deposit in full.

UA Study Abroad strongly advises all study abroad program participants to purchase fully-refundable airline tickets and/or trip cancellation insurance after they are committed to their program to safeguard against losses or penalties related to airfare should a program be cancelled, its dates change, or unforeseen circumstances cause the student to withdraw from the program. UA Study Abroad assumes no responsibility for such losses or penalties.

If a participant receiving financial aid withdraws from a faculty-led program, the participant must contact the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid immediately, as withdrawal may affect the participant's financial aid eligibility.
